Typing.com

The link: https://www.typing.com/student/lessons

SHORT DESCRIPTION

Typing.com is a free resource to help individuals learn how to type, or to improve their typing skills. Users can start at their own level, even with 2 keystrokes.

MAIN FEATURES

- Variable levels: Ideal for users who do not know how to type at all, or for experienced typers wishing to improve their skills.

- Large text: the keys or text required for the lesson are displayed in a large format, with additional visual aids of fingers on a keyboard.

- Audio feedback: unsuccessful typing has an immediate audio response, and a change of colour. Thus aiding visual cues or audio cues as immediate feedback.

HELPS WITH

Typing / Writing:
Helps people integrate typing skills into a physical process.
Typing uses a different part of the brain than writing with a pen.
And while it is shown that people with dyslexia are less skilled in typing fluency than their peers, it is also important to note that this can be due to lack of practice, and not necessarily capability.

INSTRUCTION

There are no separate instructions. Though users can make an account to record progress.

LANGUAGES

Designed for QWERTY keyboards and eventually English.

PRICING

Free to use.